SUDAN AND SOUTH SUDAN

In 1983 President Nimeiry of Sudan declared that the entire country would be ruled as an Islamic state. This meant that Islamic law (Sharia) would be imposed even on non-Muslims, who mainly lived in the south of the country.

In response to this declaration, the Sudan People's Liberation Army (SPLA) was formed. Soon the SPLA split up into several factions, mainly along tribal lines. The SPLA-Nasir group were armed by the Sudan government, and this increased the armed conflict.

More Southerners died at each other's hands than by the Northerners. In 2011 the southern states gained independence from the north, under a UN referendum. At this time, there were at least seven different armed groups at war with the South Sudan government.
