SECTION A: 20th CENTURY THEATRE MOVEMENTS

This question is COMPULSORY.

QUESTION 1

Refer to SOURCE A below and answer the question that follows.

SOURCE A

Source: [Google.com]

Theatre shines a light on life, society and, more importantly, on yourself.

– Anastasia Roberts

Create and write an essay in which you discuss the lessons theatre teaches you about life, society and yourself through the characters and themes of the play you studied.

Reflect and integrate SOURCE A, the play text and the 20th Century Theatre Movement you have studied this year.

Write the title of the play text and the 20th Century Theatre Movement (Theatre of the Absurd OR Epic Theatre OR Postmodern Theatre) you studied, at the beginning of your essay.

TOTAL SECTION A: 30

SECTION B: SOUTH AFRICAN THEATRE: 1960–1994

Answer only ONE question in this section.

QUESTION 2: WOZA ALBERT! BY PERCY MTWA, MBONGENI NGEMA AND BARNEY SIMON

Study SOURCE B below and answer the questions that follow.

SOURCE B: A THEATRE CRITIC'S REVIEW OF WOZA ALBERT!

Recently I saw a production of Woza Albert! that was both uninspired and boring. It was little more than a reading of the play. Indeed, the complete lack of theatrical elements such as characterisation, ideophones, singing, mime, physical theatre and dance displayed a complete misunderstanding of the original theatrical style and impact of the play. The actors merely sat and spoke their lines, giving no life to the many characters they should have portrayed. 5

However, Woza Albert! still has a great deal to say about the current sociopolitical and economic situation in South Africa. When Woza Albert! was created, its main aim was to expose the injustices of apartheid and mobilise change outside of the theatre.

The central idea of the play, what Morena, Jesus Christ, would do if the second coming were to take place in apartheid-era South Africa, is brought to a thrilling conclusion when Morena brings struggle heroes back from the dead. By standing on the shoulders of our heroes and using what they taught us, we can make South Africa a better place. 10

Even today, this play has the power to inspire solidarity, outrage and action.

– Bradley Adams

- 2.1 Name the 'original theatrical style' of the play (line 4). (2)
- 2.2 State TWO aims of the theatrical style named in QUESTION 2.1. (2)
- 2.3 Identify the theatrical elements of the production of Woza Albert! that were criticised by Bradley Adams. (4)
- 2.4 Explain how the 'injustices of apartheid' (line 9) are presented in Woza Albert! (6)
- 2.5 Describe how the steps/phases of the workshop process of Woza Albert! began with the 'central idea of the play' (line 10) and developed from that. (6)
- 2.6 Motivate why Morena is such an important character, although he only appears in the final scene of the play. (4)
- 2.7 Evaluate how the play still 'has the power to inspire solidarity, outrage and action' (line 14). (6)
- 2.8 Suggest how you would create a production of Woza Albert! to make it theatrically more exciting than the description in SOURCE B. (10)

QUESTION 3: SOPHIATOWN BY THE JUNCTION AVENUE THEATRE COMPANY

Study SOURCE C below and answer the questions that follow.

SOURCE C: A THEATRE CRITIC'S REVIEW OF SOPHIATOWN

Recently I saw a production of Sophiatown that was both uninspired and boring. It was little more than a reading of the play. Indeed, the complete lack of theatrical elements such as narration, music, dancing, banners and slogans displayed a complete misunderstanding of the original theatrical style and impact of the play. The actors merely sat and spoke their lines, giving no life to the characters they should have portrayed. 5

However, Sophiatown still has a great deal to say about the current sociopolitical and economic situation in South Africa. When the play was created, its main aim was to expose the injustices of apartheid, document the history of the country and mobilise change outside of the theatre. 10

The initial idea was what would happen if a white Jewish girl answered an advertisement to stay in Sophiatown in apartheid South Africa, but the main aim of the play was to show the systematic demolition of the spirit and place that was Sophia, Kofifi. The play is brought to a devastating conclusion after Sophiatown is destroyed. We could learn much from watching a production true to the original style in which it was made, produced and performed. 15

Even today, this play has the power to inspire solidarity, outrage and action.

– Lebo Ntshingila

- 3.1 Name the 'original theatrical style' of the play (line 4). (2)
- 3.2 State TWO aims of the theatrical style named in QUESTION 3.1. (2)
- 3.3 Identify the theatrical elements of the production of Sophiatown which were criticised by Lebo Ntshingila. (4)
- 3.4 Explain how the 'injustices of apartheid' (line 9) are presented in Sophiatown. (6)
- 3.5 Describe how the steps/phases of the workshop process of Sophiatown began with the 'initial idea' of the play (line 11) and developed from that. (6)
- 3.6 Motivate why Charlie might be an important character although he hardly ever speaks in the play. (4)
- 3.7 Evaluate how the play still 'has the power to inspire solidarity, outrage and action' (line 17). (6)
- 3.8 Suggest how you would create a production of Sophiatown to make it theatrically more exciting than the description in SOURCE C. (10)

QUESTION 4: SIENER IN DIE SUBURBS BY PG DU PLESSIS

Study SOURCE D below and answer the questions that follow.

SOURCE D: A THEATRE CRITIC'S REVIEW OF SIENER IN DIE SUBURBS

A few years ago I watched a performance of Siener in die Suburbs that was totally different from the original theatrical style of the play. The theatrical elements bothered me the most; it was performed on an almost empty stage with rostra (black boxes) which were used to indicate the black Buick. Door frames served as the entrance to the house. A chicken coop was painted on the back wall and the sound effects of chains and tools indicated Tjokkie working on the car. Jakes entered miming his bike with pre-recorded sounds of it blasting over the speakers. Already then a warning signal sounded. When the characters appeared in black costume, it was clear that the producers had misunderstood the original theatrical style of the play. 5

However, Siener in die Suburbs presents the socio-economic situation in South Africa during apartheid and still has a great deal to say about the current sociopolitical and economic situation. We empathise with characters who long to break free from injustices in society. 10

These problems include poverty, addiction, verbal and emotional abuse, violence, discrimination and alcoholism. The play still has the power to inspire solidarity, outrage and action. 15

– Sanet du Plessis

- 4.1 Name the 'original theatrical style' of the play (line 2). (2)
- 4.2 Identify FOUR characteristics of the theatrical style named in QUESTION 4.1. (4)
- 4.3 Analyse the theatrical elements of the production of Siener in die Suburbs which were criticised by Sanet du Plessis. (4)
- 4.4 Discuss how 'the socio-economic situation in South Africa during apartheid' (lines 10–11) is presented in Siener in die Suburbs. (8)
- 4.5 Motivate why Pa is such an important character although he is never on stage. (6)
- 4.6 Evaluate how the play still 'has the power to inspire solidarity, outrage and action' (lines 15–16). (6)
- 4.7 Suggest how you would create a production of Siener in die Suburbs to make it theatrically more exciting than the description in SOURCE D. (10)

QUESTION 9

Study SOURCE I below and answer the questions that follow.

SOURCE I: A COMMENT BY A DRAMATIC ARTS INFLUENCER

NOTE: An influencer is someone who uses social media to set trends and influences those who follow them.

Plays have power. Power to affect the hearts and minds of those who watch.

As an influencer, I use TikTok* video clips to encourage my followers to go and watch live theatre because the theatrical elements in a live production such as singing, dancing, sound, lighting, set, costumes and special effects make it fun and exciting to watch. Watching plays can change the way we think about the world we live in.

(*TikTok is a social media application (app) that allows users to make short videos.)

- 9.1 Define the term Dramatic Arts. (2)
- 9.2 Imagine you are a Dramatic Arts influencer. You want to promote any play you have studied in Dramatic Arts.
- 9.2.1 Name the play you have studied in Dramatic Arts that would inspire you to create your TikTok video. (2)
- 9.2.2 Describe what theatrical elements you might include in your TikTok video to make your followers want to watch the play selected in QUESTION 9.2.1. (6)
- 9.2.3 Explain how the play you selected has the power to change the way we think about the world we live in. (6)
- 9.2.4 Debate whether or not TikTok should be included in the teaching of Dramatic Arts. (4)
