1.1 EXTRACT A

[John Harrison and James Jarvis in conversation]

- | | |
|---|----|
| - There's one thing I don't get the sense of, said Jarvis. Why this should have happened? ... | |
| - You mean ... to him, of all people? | |
| - Yes. | |
| - That's one of the first things we said. Here he was, day in and day out, on a kind of mission. And it was he who was killed. | 5 |
| - Mind you, said Jarvis, coming to a point. Mind you, it's happened before. I mean, that missionaries were killed. | |
| Harrison made no answer, and they smoked their pipes silently. A missionary, thought Jarvis, and thought how strange it was that he had called his son a missionary. For he had never thought much of missionaries. True, the church made a lot of it, and there were special appeals to which he had given, but one did that kind of thing without believing much in missionaries. There was a mission near him, at Ndotsheni. But it was a sad place as he remembered it. A dirty old wood-and-iron church, patched and forlorn, and a dirty old parson in a barren valley where the grass hardly grew. A dirty old school where he had heard them reciting, parrot-fashion, on the one or two occasions that he had ridden past there, reciting things that could mean little to them. | 10 |
| - Bed, Jarvis? Or another drink? | 15 |

1.2 EXTRACT B

[Stephen Kumalo and John Kumalo are talking.]

- I hear it is some of the things that are said in this shop, said Kumalo.

- In this shop? Who would know what is said in this shop?

For all the prayers for the power to forgive, Kumalo desired to hurt his brother. Do you know every man who comes to this shop? he asked. Could a man not be sent to this shop to deceive you? 5

The big bull man wiped the sweat from his brow. He was wondering, Kumalo knew, if such a thing might not be. And for all the prayers, the desire to hurt was stronger, so strong that he was tempted to lie, yielded and lied. I have heard, he said, that a man might have been sent to this shop to deceive you. As a friend.

- You heard that? 10

And Kumalo, ashamed, had to say, I heard it.

- What a friend, said the big bull man. What a friend.

And Kumalo cried at him out of his suffering. My son had two such friends.

The big man looked at him. Your son? he said. Then the meaning of it came to him, and anger overwhelmed him. Out of my shop, he roared, out of my shop. 15

[Utterson reflects on a letter from Lanyon.]

"I never saw a man so distressed as you were by my will; unless it were that hide-bound pedant, Lanyon, at what he called my scientific heresies. Oh, I know he's a good fellow — you needn't frown — an excellent fellow, and I always mean to see more of him; but a hide-bound pedant for all that; an ignorant, blatant pedant. I was never more disappointed in any man than Lanyon."	5
"You know I never approved of it," pursued Utterson, ruthlessly disregarding the fresh topic.
"My will? Yes, certainly, I know that," said the doctor, a trifle sharply. "You have told me so."
"Well, I tell you so again," continued the lawyer. "I have been learning something of young Hyde."	10
The large handsome face of Dr Jekyll grew pale to the very lips, and there came a blackness about his eyes. "I do not care to hear more," said he. "This is a matter I thought we had agreed to drop."
"What I heard was abominable," said Utterson.	15
"It can make no change. You do not understand my position," returned the doctor, with a certain incoherency of manner. "I am painfully situated, Utterson; my position is a very strange — a very strange one. It is one of those affairs that cannot be mended by talking."
"Jekyll," said Utterson, "you know me: I am a man to be trusted."	20

[Dr Lanyon in conversation with Mr Hyde]

"You forget that I have not yet the pleasure of your acquaintance. Be seated, if you please." And I showed him an example, and sat down myself in my customary seat and with as fair an imitation of my ordinary manner to a patient, as the lateness of the hour, the nature of my pre occupations, and the horror I had of my visitor, would suffer me to muster.

"I beg your pardon, Dr Lanyon," he replied civilly enough. "What you say is very well founded; and my impatience has shown its heels to my politeness. I come here at the instance of your colleague, Dr Henry Jekyll, on a piece of business of some moment; and I understood ..." he paused and put his hand to his throat, and I could see, in spite of his collected manner, that he was wrestling against the approaches of the hysteria – "I understood, a drawer ..."

10

But here I took pity on my visitor's suspense, and some perhaps on my own growing curiosity.

"There it is, sir," said I, pointing to the drawer, where it lay on the floor behind a table and still covered with the sheet.

15

He sprang to it, and then paused, and laid his hand upon his heart; I could hear his teeth grate with the convulsive action of his jaws; ...

[Mr M wants information from Isabel about Thami.]

MR M: But did he say what they were?

ISABEL: You're fishing for something, Mr M. What is it?

MR M: Trouble, Isabel, I'm sorry to say it, but I'm fishing for trouble and I'm trying to catch it before it gets too big.

ISABEL: Thami is in trouble? 5

MR M: Not yet, but he will be if he's not careful. And all his friends as well. It's swimming around everywhere, Isabel. In the classroom, out on the streets.

ISABEL: Oh, you mean that sort of trouble. Is it really that bad as people are saying? 10

MR M: There's a dangerous, reckless mood in the location. Specially among the young people. Very silly things are being said, Isabel and I've got a suspicion that even sillier things are being whispered among themselves. I know Thami trusts you. I was wondering if he has told you what they were whispering about. 15

ISABEL: [Shocked by what Mr M was asking of her] Wow! That's a hard one you're asking for, Mr M. Just suppose he had, do you think it would be right for me to tell you? We call that splitting, you know, and you're not very popular if you're caught doing it.

MR M: It would be for his own good, Isabel. 20

ISABEL: Well he hasn't ... thank goodness! So I don't have to deal with that one.

- 'FORBIDDEN LOVE' by Can Themba

QUESTION 5

Read the following extracts from the TWO short stories below and answer the questions set on each. The number of marks allocated to each question serves as a guide to the expected length of your answer.

NOTE: Answer the questions set on BOTH extracts, i.e. QUESTION 5.1 AND QUESTION 5.2.

5.1 'CLASS ACT'EXTRACT I

[The narrator starts at a new school.]

I've had a terrible time at school this week. My classmates are rude and make a lot of noise. Dino brought a small battery operated radio to school and played it in class. Our English teacher, Mr Sauls, couldn't get the class to keep quiet during the last period so he took his briefcase from the cupboard, put it on his desk and laid his head on it.	5
There are at least ten repeaters in class. Some, like Renato, have failed Standard 6 three times. He made us - the freshers - stand in front of the blackboard while he surveyed our uniforms. "The tunic should be a respectable length. At least three fingers above the knee," he said pacing up and down, all the while pinching his nose. With a piece of chalk in his hand he turned, and pointed at me. "Tell me, tell us, Sister Mary Clarence, what's your excuse? This is not a convent."	10
The class's laughter sounded like thunder in my ears and I could feel my head spinning. I looked at myself in the mirror when I got home. Indeed, I looked like the nuns in the film Sister Act .	15
I asked Mama again but she said she was busy and would fix it over the weekend.
Ayanda is back from Alice. She's lucky she has finished school. No one wears uniform at university.

EXTRACT J

[Salome confronts the father of her son, Davie.]

'Remember me? You beat up my brother because he is in love with your sister. Okay, now I've brought my brother to beat you up because you were in love with his sister. Fair enough?'
'You lie!' Davie said hoarsely.
'I thought you'd say that, so I brought some proof. Where do you suppose I got this handsome picture of yours, Davie? And just in case you deny that one too, I'd like your father to read these flaming letters you once wrote to me.'	5
She pushed a neatly-tied bundle of letters to the old man, saying tartly, 'And to think I treasured these letters because they came from the only man I ever loved.'	10
The old man seemed only then to be suddenly galvanized into life.
'Get out! Get out of my house!' he shrieked.
Salome kept cool.
'Oh no, you don't. If you get tough I'll take your son to court for not supporting his child for the last three years.' She turned to her brother.	15
'Mike, you've been asking me all the time who the father of my child was and I've been silent. I told you it's a man I love, a man who would come into the open if he could but that his circumstances were exceptional.
You thought it was a married man. Well, that is the man!"	20

Reciprocities – Cathal Lagan
for my mother

- 1 She gave me skeins of wool
- 2 To hold out (like a priest at Mass),
- 3 With stern rubrics not to fidget, while she
- 4 Wound it into a ball, unwinding me,
- 5 Unravelling my hands and arms, checking
- 6 My lapses with a gentle tug
- 7 When I wandered off through images
- 8 Her chat had made, for though
- 9 She kept the line between us taut
- 10 She kept my heart at ease with all her talk.

- 11 And when her ball compacted grew,
- 12 And my few strands fell limp away,
- 13 I knew there was no loss, for she
- 14 Would knit it back again to fit me perfectly.

- 15 But richer still,
- 16 I see today these lines are drawn out from me
- 17 To knit through this faltering verse
- 18 A thread of memory
- 19 Time has pulled away from consciousness.

Inversnaid – Gerard Manley Hopkins

1 This darksome burn, horseback brown,
 2 His rollrock highroad roaring down,
 3 In coop and in comb the fleece of his foam
 4 Flutes and low to the lake falls home.

5 A windpuff-bonnet of fáwn-fróth
 6 Turns and twindles over the broth
 7 Of a pool so pitchblack, féll-frówning,
 8 It rounds and rounds Despair to drowning.

9 Degged with dew, dappled with dew
 10 Are the groins of the braes that the brook treads through,
 11 Wiry heathpacks, fitches of fern,
 12 And the beadbonny ash that sits over the burn.

13 What would the world be, once bereft
 14 Of wet and of wildness? Let them be left,
 15 O let them be left, wildness and wet;
 16 Long live the weeds and the wilderness yet.
